

Stories and Snapshots from the Field

Conversations with Dr. Charles Thompson

Director of the Undergraduate Program, Center for Documentary Studies, Duke University

Thursday, March 25, 2010

at Mars Hill College

James G.K. McClure Collection, Southern Appalachian Archives, Mars Hill College

Farming, Food, and Faith

An Interdisciplinary Conversation Examining Social Justice and Agriculture with
Dr. Charles Thompson and Dr. Norman Wirzba, Duke Divinity School

7:00 p.m.

Broyhill Chapel

“Documenting Farms and Farm
Workers: Past and Present”

9:30 a.m.

Peterson Conference Room,
Blackwell Hall

“Documentary Work as a Tool for Social Justice and Teaching”

12:00 p.m.

Small Dining Room,
Pittman Dining Hall

This day is a part of the Liston B. Ramsey Center for Regional Studies' program series, which for the 2009-2010 academic year features the Farmers Federation and the James G.K. McClure Collection of the Southern Appalachian Archives at Mars Hill College.

Contact Amy Carraux with questions or for more information (828.689.1571 or acarraux@mhc.edu).

NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR THE HUMANITIES